

Your turn to win this one, darling, say married couples

(...)

Older workers are just as productive as younger ones, according to research which overturns the stereotype that more mature employees are "past their best".

In fact, "productivity rises with age all the way up to retirement", the study of production line workers at a Mercedes-Benz truck factory in Germany found.

Mature workers also made fewer serious mistakes and were found to cope better with problems, according to the study by the Mannheim Research Institute.

Der vollständige Artikel erschien im Daily Telegraph am 18. April 2011.